

Investment Objective

The Income model aims to provide a combination of long-term capital growth and an income for investors who are willing to accept a medium level of risk by investing across global markets into a range of asset classes. Equity exposure within this portfolio will not exceed 60%. The portfolio's benchmark is the ARC Sterling Balanced Asset PCI.

Commentary

Over the month, the Income portfolio returned 1.73%, outperforming the ARC Sterling Balanced Asset PCI. From a capital markets perspective, global equities were broadly positive during March as soothing sounds from Central banks across the world suggesting interest rates were not going to rise any time soon (regardless of what happens to inflation) combined with an extra $1.9trn stimulus package in the US and a budget in the UK that was not overly taxing suggests that "risk on" remains the mantra. The extra stimulus from the US, which has literally come in the form of a cheque, combined with assistance last year has accounted for between 10% and 15% of US GDP which should provide the much-needed kick start the economy needs to get over the shock of 2020 and Covid-19. Oil prices peaked during the month at their highest for almost two years after one of the largest container ships in the world run aground and managed to block the Suez Canal and impact around 10% of global trade. Fixed income markets ended the month broadly flat. We find the portfolio remains suitable for a client looking to obtain a broad exposure of assets diversified by manager, investment style, geography and income.

A central model is created for each of our model portfolios, where the performance summary, asset allocation, fund holdings, charges and yield quoted on this factsheet are based on the central model portfolio. Where the central model is replicated, such as through a platform, any individual portfolio is unlikely to be identical to that of the central model as a result of the timing of the investment or any restrictions of the platform provider. There may be some circumstances when certain investments (e.g. property funds) may not be readily realisable and investors may experience difficulty in selling the investment or in obtaining reliable information as to its value.
